EASY STEPS FOR OUTSTANDING NATURE PHOTOGRAPHY

- ◇ ANTARCTICA: BEHIND THE SCENES
- ◇ COLOR!
- ◇ SHOOT ANY TIME, ANYWHERE
- ◇ ORDINARY TO EXTRAORDINARY

Join professional photographer Chris Ogden for a high-energy set of interactive classes sure to increase your success as an outdoor photographer. Whether birds, critters, flora, grand landscapes, or macros are your love, you will receive insider tips, tricks, and methods to tangibly take you to the next level in your photography. Given the combined breadth and depth of the material, this workshop is open to all skill levels!

Antarctica: Behind the Scenes

Experience what it's like to take a photographic journey to Antarctica aboard a converted Soviet "spy" ship. Learn how to maximize your adventures, saving time and money when booking a photo safari, making travel plans, preparing for foreign/austere locations, and undertaking a once-in-a-lifetime trip. Chris will share both insightful travel shots and also a variety of his award winning fine art photos, culled from over 14,000 images made during his three week expedition.

Color! 10 Things You Need To Know

We can make or break our photographs through our choices of what and how we include particular colors, color palettes, and color combinations/proximities. We'll learn when sometimes it's best to express your color photo in black and white. We'll explore how to get consistent color throughout our process of creating an image in the field, through our digital darkroom, to output on a website, presentation, or a print.

Shoot Any Time, Anywhere

Sure, it's great to shoot in the perfect golden light, in exotic places, in perfect weather, with amazing sights, sounds, and scenery abounding! But what do we do about our majority of time outdoors when all the cosmos aren't aligned for such ideal conditions? We'll explore how we can add skills, techniques, and maybe a few new gizmos, to expand our creative photographic toolbox that allows us to create "great" shots under any condition we may encounter, no matter where we are.

This terrific workshop's topics shall also include...

Ordinary to Extraordinary:

Tips for Moving from "Good" Photos to "Great" Ones

Let's take a break from all the technology – no megapixels, computers, software, workflow, etc. Nada, rien, nothing. Instead, let's dig into the essence of the Photo! We'll dive into a multitude of factors we can apply to our shooting to make consistently better images and enable a greater range of artistic expression. Almost one hundred(!) concepts used in photo critiques shall trigger your auditory, visual, and kinesthetic learning styles. We'll illustrate, and then challenge, some of the more typical "rules." Then we'll open horizons to some of the more sophisticated photographic constructs that can create rich, layered photos which work on the viewer's subconscious & conscious levels and express our best and deepest visions!

A word about the Instructor...

Chris Ogden is a full time professional photographer and educator based in Durham, NC, who travels worldwide in pursuit of special moments, in special light. As a lifelong outdoorsman, Chris endeavors to put himself and his camera in unusual places. Particularly drawn to venture far off the beaten path, he often travels into the back-countries and unique foreign venues in search of Light, Moment, and Place. Chris specializes in landscapes, abstracts, intertwined man & nature, travel photographs, and street scenes that capture inspiring emotions, whether on the earth, above it, or below the sea. He is especially drawn to subjects where photography may provide a powerful vehicle to engender environmental awareness, appreciation, protection, and questioning.
